DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS – DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisified, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

Advertising must be prepaid, except as noted below; see "Payment" paragraph above for details. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals must be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon, black ink (not pencil) on white. If used, reverse type must be limited to 25% of the ad. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85-line screen; otherwise, add $12.00 per photo for screening. Do not cut or trim photos or glue photos to artwork; submit separately.

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad. We will be happy to advise you on your ad ideas, estimate how much the ad will cost, recommend an ad size, etc.

We assume that advertisers want all ads which are submitted to run without delay; therefore, we will run the ad and bill for any additional work required for the ad to meet these specifications. A late ad will run beginning with the next month. "Tear sheets" will be sent only for 1/8-page or larger ads and only if requested when the ad is submitted.

Business card ads are limited to one per advertiser.

The 3-month rates represent about an 11% discount, the 6-month rates 23%, the 12-month rates 30%. Placement requests: add 15% but call first. Clubs: write for discount policy.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

A.R.C. beats the odds once again — not the least of which are the bitter cold and heavy snowfall here in our small New England town. We've also had to deal with the mailing complications around the President's Day holiday, as well as the welcome problem of a record number of ads. But, persistance pays! We've managed to meet our deadlines and send off another packed issue of A.R.C. to you, our faithful readers.

On the other hand, the closed airports and extreme weather did delay many of your ads. Twenty-nine were received too late, on the day after the deadline. A word about delivery times might be pertinent: Only about 70% of the mail arrives in three days, while about 10% takes five or more days to arrive. So, if you mail on the 5th of the month, there is a 10% chance that your ad will be received too late for the issue. Our suggestion is to mail on the first of the month for a 99.9% chance of getting your ad here by the 10th.

March is the month for the annual Index to A.R.C. to appear in the center of the issue so that it can be removed for convenient reference. By combining the annual indices in the 1992 and 1993 March issues and the cumulative index in the March 1991 issue, you can reference all A.R.C. issues since June 1984. Thanks again this year to Frank White for his outstanding job.

The Fada Neutrodyne kit radio is the subject of a fine article by Richard Arnold. A 1924-1925 model, two years later than the Fada set illustrated on our cover, this set used the nonoscillating Neutrodyne circuit developed by L.A. Hazeltine.

Bill Harris reports on the early days of radio in rural America. Before AC lines reached farm homes, tubes in farmhouse sets were lit by batteries, often charged by a wind-driven generator. Within the first eight months of the REA project in 1938, 86% of the newly wired homes had a radio.

Gary Watros compares the results of testing tubes on several different brands of tube testers. His results show that one should not necessarily take tube tester readings as gospel. There can be problems with the tester operation itself, as well as with the tube chart information. Marginal tubes are especially difficult to test.

Robert and Tina Wiepert report on a find of Marconi/RCA documentation at the site of an early wireless station in Kahuku, Oahu, Hawaii. They have donated this large volume of material to the Marconi Center in Marshall, California.

With the index in this issue and the deluge of classified ads, the number of article pages was necessarily trimmed somewhat. However, four pages of the popular Photo Review are included. Shown are an early Murdock receiver, novelty radios, radio-related novelties, and AC sets. Our Radio Miscellanea page includes several restoration tips, questions, suggestions and a reader comment (with the Editor's response) on the recent rate increase.

New record for ads and subscribers. This issue establishes another record for A.R.C. — 947 classified ads, 10% over our previous high of last December. And with the addition of Radio Age subscribers, we now have over 8100 subscribers. Although there are several specialized publications, all collectors realize that a subscription to Antique Radio Classified is the only way to reach collectors of old radios of all persuasions!

Club Events. A scan of the Coming Radio Events pages shows that radio collectors don't simply stay at home during the winter months. Beginning with twenty clubs holding regular monthly meetings, there are an additional eleven collector events this month. There also are early announcements of the major events scheduled for the warmer half of the year. It is not too early to arrange your family and work schedule to attend these events. A.R.C.'s plans for the next several months include the New England Club meet and the Dayton Ohio Hamvention in April, the Birmingham, England, Vintage Communications Fair in May, and the ARCA Little Rock, Arkansas convention in June. I hope to see you at one of these events!

Happy Collecting.

John V. Terrey

ON THE COVER

The cover illustration this month is taken from The Fada Handbook of Radio-facts, Catalog E, Copyright 1922, by Frank A. D. Andrea. The set illustrated is a 3-tube, detector/2-stage audio amplifier set using a variocoupler and a variable condenser for tuning.

From the handbook, we quote Mr. Andrea on the early days of radio: "On July 2nd, 1921, the word-by-mouth description of the Dempsey-Carpentier combat was broadcast from Jersey City. In my belief, this is what set the radio world ablaze... The novelty of hearing voices and music 'out of the clouds' instantly appealed to everyone... . Where a few short weeks before, only a few knew of the possibilities of radio in the home, millions now talked radio from morning to night."

Fada 5-Tube Neutrodyne Kit Radio

BY RICHARD ARNOLD

The 1927 National Radio Institute Course in Practical Radio, Lesson 20, extols the Neutrodyne circuit: "One of the most used radio receiving circuits is the Neutrodyne as developed by Professor L.A. Hazeltine. This development is without doubt a distinct improvement in the art of radio reception in that it completely overcomes one of the most annoying causes of failure in tuned radio frequency amplification; namely, it eliminates the tendency of tuned amplifiers to oscillate. With proper shielding, it will also eliminate interference caused by the oscillation of nearby receiving sets."

The schematic in Figure 1 shows a diagram of the Hazeltine circuit with its neutralizing condensers. Coincidentally, Scientific American of September 1924 quotes a New York Times article on the introduction of a new "N" circuit developed by a Sir Oliver Lodge. This circuit, shown in Figure 2, apparently produced results similar to the Hazeltine circuit. Lodge's claim for this circuit carried considerable weight in England; nevertheless, Hazeltine received credit for the development of the Neutrodyne circuit.

In 1924-1925, F.A.D. Andrea (Fada) went all out in the production of at least eight Neutrodyne circuit models, ranging in price from $75 for the 3-tube Neutro-Junior to $295 for the much larger 5-tube Model 185/90A. Not only did Fada make complete radio sets, but the company also manufactured kit radios for the home constructor.

According to a 1925 Fada advertisement in Popular Science Monthly, January 1925, "more Neutrodyne receivers are being bought and made than any other type of radio receiver." The ad further states, "You couldn't build a set that will give you as much real radio enjoyment and results as you can get on a 5-tube Fada Neutrodyne. You can assemble one yourself in a few hours that will enable you to tune into stations all over the country with loudspeaker volume." A completely assembled Fada Neutrodyne kit is pictured in Figures 3 and 4, while its schematic is shown in Figure 5.

The chart in Figure 6, which shows the popularity of several types of circuits employed in receivers made by the home constructor, appeared in the book Practical Radio Construction and Repairing. The information was obtained from a questionnaire sent out to a large number of radio dealers by Radio Retailing in 1927. Note that the success of the Neutrodyne circuit was short-lived.

Frank A.D. Andrea

The following is an excerpt from an article by Arthur Pine in "Radio and Television News," May 1950.

"No history of the radio or television industry would be complete without the saga of Frank A.D. Andrea, for during the 60 years of his life, this pioneer has added much to the advancement of electronics. Today, as president of the Andrea Radio Corporation of Long Island City, New York, he is still busy each day with experimental work directed toward perfecting television to the point where it is flawless. 1950 is a landmark in his career, for it marks his 30th year in radio and television, and places him, along with Lee DeForest and others of that caliber, as one of the pioneers in the industry. Few men still active in radio and television today were in this field back in 1920 when he organized Frank A.D. Andrea, Inc., in a small room on Jerome Avenue at 176th St. in the Bronx.

"At that time, the entire organization consisted of Frank Andrea and two helpers. Their first efforts were concentrated on producing such items as rheostats, crystals and sockets for the pioneer set builders of the time. ...In 1917, Mr. Andrea went to work for Lee DeForest. Then, in July of 1920, he went into business for himself. ...By 1922 the organization had begun to prosper, a large percentage of the business being in Neutrodyne kits — the first to be sold to the amateur, according to Mr. Andrea. In 1923, the company produced the first commercial Neutrodyne receiver based on designs by Professor L.A. Hazeltine of the Stevens Institute of Technology. ...This receiver captured the public's fancy and over 30,000 were put on the market before the year was out."

Radio Ownership in 1930

COMPILED BY DICK DESJARLAIS FROM A REPORT CONTRIBUTED BY ROSS MASON

Did you know that 63.4 percent of all families in New Jersey owned radio sets in 1930, while in Mississippi only 5.4 percent of families were as fortunate? Or that Oak Park, Illinois, laid claim to the highest percentage of families with radios at 82.5 percent, with Augusta, Georgia, having only 13.4 percent?

This is the kind of intriguing information found in the U.S. Bureau of Census report entitled "U.S. Population–Radio Sets," which Ross Mason found in the RCA Radiotron Reference Book — 1932. This report cites the population, the number of families, the number of radio sets, and the percentage of families owning radios in each state and in several major cities.

In 1930, the population in the United States was 122,775,047, and there were 29,980,146 families. Of this number 12,078,345 families, or 40.4 percent of all families had radios in their homes. This is an impressive statistic, considering that the radio industry had its beginnings only ten years or so earlier.

As already mentioned, the report gives data only for the larger cities within a given state. There is no breakdown for rural areas. However, in almost every state, the statewide percentage of families owning radio sets was markedly lower than the percentage in the major cities. A good example is Little Rock, Arkansas, where the percentage of families having radios was 32.9 percent, while the statewide percentage was only 9.2 percent. The obvious conclusion is that radio ownership in 1930 was very heavily concentrated in urban areas.

By the late 1930s, this statistic must have changed considerably with the advent of rural electrification. For example, in 1938, Rural Electrification Authority (REA) statistics showed that 86 percent of its members had radios in their homes, even though the average REA project had been operating only a few months.

Since the U.S. census is taken every ten years, it would be interesting to compare the data of 1940 against that of 1930.

RADIO MISCELLANEA

"Antique Radio Classified" invites its readers to contribute letters and information for inclusion in "Radio Miscellanea" and elsewhere in the magazine. The topic should be of general interest and sent to A.R.C., P.O. Box 2, Carlisle, MA 01741. All material submitted should be verified for accuracy and may be edited for publication, which is not guaranteed. See the masthead for more details.

Article Suggestions & Tips

Dear Editor:

I want you to know that I think A.R.C. is a fine magazine. The free ads, the readers' contributions with their hints and accounts of first-hand participation in the history of radio make this publication more of a club than a mere magazine. Here are a few ideas for future articles and a hint or two that you are welcome to use:

1. I recently found among auction material that I had purchased some RCA nuvistors. They are such strange little metal tubes (6CW4s) that there must be an interesting story behind them. Does anyone know how to use them?

2. One of the contributing writers for A.R.C. should take a camera and visit Mr. Frank Krantz. A good story would probably result.

3. Restorers who use antique test equipment with their old radios should not forget to replace the capacitors in them. One day I was using a Solar capacitor analyzer to test a batch of capacitors and was throwing most of them away. Suspicion made me check the checker. Replacing the caps rejuvenated the analyzer and made it a joy to use.

4. Here's a use I found for tube audio amps: put a mike outside the house and check out the strange noises that sometimes occur in the night.

On A.R.C.'s Rate Hikes

Dear Editor:

About the only thing I can say on your latest subscription and advertising rate hikes is that I'm disappointed you did not at least increase the number of "free" words in return. I have never, but never, in my entire life had the luxury of getting more pay without being expected to put out something extra in return. I'd like to see A.R.C. held to this same standard. An increase from 20 free words to 25 would seem like a reasonble expectation and a nice "token" to say "thanks" for continued support. It would only be fair.

David P. Smith, Olney, IL

Our subscribers receive more than token thanks! There are more pages each year (December issues for '91, '92 & '93 had 92, 100 & 104 pages respectively.) These issues had more ads (751, 792 & 860) and more article pages (20, 25 & 26). Additionally, the ads that subscribers place are sent to more subscribers, e.g. potential buyers (7045, 7556 & 7813). In the last five years, A.R.C.'s page count is up 117%, number of ads up 177%, article pages up 117% and subscriber rates (by 2nd Class) up only 68%.

Thanks to the overwhelming number of you who continue to express your support for A.R.C.'s continued growth and your understanding of the efforts and costs involved in publishing and improving a small and specialized magazine. (Editor)

Information Wanted

Dear Editor:

I wonder if A.R.C. readers know of any published cross references for radios marketed by one or more companies which use identical chassis, e.g., RCA vs. Sears, Stromberg-Carlson vs. Westinghouse, etc. The third edition of Mallory's Yaxley Radio Service Encyclopedia contains a cross reference for GE and RCA radios. Because some Canadian sets, such as Marconi and Canadian GE put out identical chassis, a cross reference would come in handy.

Also, I have a problem that some of your readers might be able to help me with. I have an RCA Model 3-BX-671 portable, chassis RC 1125. The radio worked perfectly, but the dial cable was missing. Since I installed a new cable, the dial pointer has traveled only half the required distance. I'm stumped. I can't see where there might have been another larger drum or pulley mounted originally. If some reader out there can help me solve this problem, I would appreciate it.

On Cadmium Plating

Dear Editor:

My thanks to Robert Lozier and his article "Testing Your Cleaning Methods" in the December 1993 issue of A.R.C. His accelerated test program proves the value of removing the last trace of caustic cleaners.

Many radio chassis and other steel parts are plated with cadmium rather than zinc. Until quite recently electronics manufacturers (my own company included) specified cad-plating because of its superior durability over zinc. Now, in California at any rate, it's impossible to get things cad-plated, and zinc is the next best alternative for steel parts.

Unless it is properly "passivated" following the electroplating process, cadmium plating breaks down with moisture and with chemicals out-gassed from nearby rubber, plastic and plywood parts. We've all seen that powdery white dust on metal radio parts; loudspeaker frames are notorious for this. The white powder wipes off if you touch it; just remember not to inhale the dust or put your fingers in your mouth afterward. Once it's separated from the steel in the form of a metallic salt, cadmium is fairly toxic.

Plastic Repair Inquiry

Dear Editor:

I have noticed that on many wooden radios the plastic escutcheons or push buttons appear to be distorted or to have developed cracks. Some almost look as if they were melted. Do any of the readers have an explanation for this, and is there any way to prevent it? Is there any type of satisfactory repair possible?

Radio Reaches Rural America

The Early Days of REA

BY BILL HARRIS

Electrification didn't come to rural America until the 1930s. Before rural homes had electricity, many tasks had to be performed by hard manual labor. Water from the well for cooking, washing, and watering of livestock had to be hand pumped or hand drawn. Reading was done by the dim light of a kerosene lamp. The lady of the house did her washing by hand, and ironed using flat irons heated on a wood or coal-fired stove.

Few rural homes had radios, and those that did were battery-operated "farm" sets like the Philco Model 37-34 shown in Figure 1. Because of the expense of batteries and the task of keeping them charged, radio time was doled out sparingly, usually just for special programs.

The Rural Electrification Authority (REA) brought electricity to rural America, and now the work of many manual tasks was made much easier with the help of this modern wonder. Everyone wanted "the electric." It cost five dollars to sign up with the REA, and there had to be at least three customers per mile in order to justify the cost of running the power lines.

One farmer came in to pay his five dollars and sign up but was told his house was too far from the right-of-way. A few days later he came back waving his money. "I moved my house," he explained.

A Tennessee farmer proclaimed to his fellow churchgoers, "The greatest thing on earth is to have the love of God in your heart. The next greatest thing is to have electricity in your house."

After electrification, the first and most popular electrical item usually purchased was an iron for mom; the second most purchased item was a radio. The 1939 Zenith Model 5-S-319, shown in Figure 2, is one example of the AC-operated sets which displaced the older battery radios.

Essayist E. B. White wrote, "When rural people referred to 'the radio,' they meant a pervading and somewhat godlike presence which had come into their lives and homes."

"The day we got our radio," wrote one farm wife, "we put it on the kitchen window, aimed it out at the fields, and turned it on full blast. During the first week, the men hated to be out of the sound of it."

Without a doubt, the radio was one of the most popular and influential new appliances to come into the country home. While the city dweller relied upon the radio as entertainment, the farmer used it as an aid to better farming. With radio, he could get the latest price of cattle, wheat, market news, and other practical farming advice. For the farmer's wife, there was information on cooking, clothes, diet, and even child psychology.

Education by radio became important. Because of the growing numbers, the rural audience was attractive to radio broadcasters, and every conceivable subject was offered over the airwaves. Even typing was successfully taught by radio. The REA suggested that "the power lines along the highway should pause at these little schoolhouses to deliver the few watts which stand between the child and the great world in which some day he may be a very important part."

In 1938, REA statistics showed that 86 percent of its members had a radio in the home, even though the average project had been operating only eight months.

Rural families did not limit their listening to farm-related programs. They also tuned in to entertainment, as did their city cousins.

The "National Farm and Home Hour" became the longest-running program in the history of network radio. It was on the air daily from October of 1928 to June of 1944, and became a weekly program for a time after that.

Boys would race home after school to hurry and finish farm chores in time to listen to adventure serials. "Jack Armstrong, The All American Boy!" came from countless radios in the afternoons. The words "Return with us now to those thrilling days of yesteryear — the Lone Ranger rides again!" made many a mother despair of ever getting the children to the dinner table.

Saturday nights would find the family gathered around to "watch" the radio. Folks would look intently at the radio while listening, as if that helped to visualize the performers and events taking place. "The Grand Old Opry" with Red Foley and Minnie Pearl, as well as the "National Barn Dance" with Lulu Bell and Scotty, were favorites of this night.

Sunday nights brought Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy into the home. The women followed the trials and tribulations of Oxydol's own "Ma Perkins" and other soaps throughout the week. They also used the cabinet tops of Philcos and Crosleys to display family photos.

The thing the rural audience cherished the most, however, was the opportunity to listen to F.D.R.'s Fireside Chats. Now folks in the country could feel a part of the political as well as the social life of the nation.

It was two decades later before television began to seep into rural America. Television's influence came slowly and without anywhere near the impact that radio had made.

Bill Harris' interest in antique radio collecting began about six years ago after he had restored a Paragon RA-10/DA-2 combination [A.R.C. September 1992]. His collection ranges from 1920s battery sets to Bakelites and some early transistor sets. Cathedrals and tombstones of the 1930s are his main interest. He also holds an amateur radio operator's license (K5MIL), and would like to discuss antique radio collecting with others on the amateur bands.

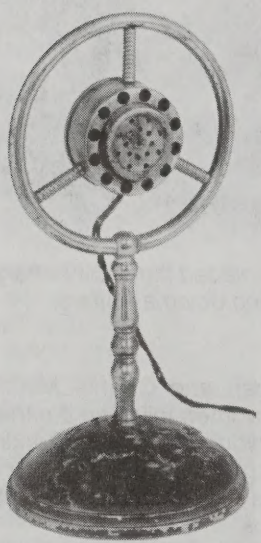
This column presents in pictorial form many of the more unusual radios, speakers, tubes, advertising, and other old radio-related items from our readers' collections. The photos are meant to help increase awareness of what's available in the radio collecting hobby. Send in any size photos from your collection. Photos must be sharp in detail, contain a single item, and preferably have a light-colored background. A short, descriptive paragraph MUST be included with each photo. Please note that receipt of photos is not acknowledged, publishing is not guaranteed, and photos are not returned.



CIGAR LIGHTER – A rare carbon microphone from the 1920s? No, this is actually a cigar lighter! The piece is 8 ½" tall and has a relief map of the U. S. and Canada as its base. There are no manufacturer's markings on the unit. Any information that can be provided on this lighter would be appreciated. Please send it to A.R.C. to share with other readers. (Frank Hagenbuch – Williamsport, PA)

FARNSWORTH MODEL GT-051 – This 1948 bullet-shaped, 5-tube set is a good example of the Deco period of the 1940s and 1950s. (Doyle and Doris Roberts – Clinton, AR)

AIR CASTLE – Although similar to many radios from the 1930s, this unique radio includes slide-out bookends. The chassis is the same as Model 629. (Curtis and Julia Schreiber – Springfield, MO)

WIRELESS RECEIVER – Licensed by Wireless Specialty Apparatus for the Murdock Co., this crude receiver uses an Audion bulb. Pre-1920s receivers are not seen at flea markets very often. (Joe M. Nocera – New Castle, PA)

PHOTO REVIEW

DUCRETET-THOMSON MODEL TR854 – This circa 1962 transistor portable by the well known French company has 3 bands, AM/SW and LW, as is common in Europe. The case is built of molded plywood and covered in fine leatherette. (Walter V. Worth – Wollaston, MA)

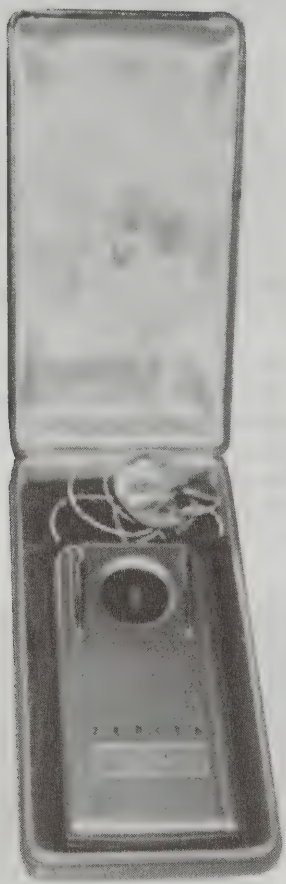
MALT SHOP TRANSISTOR RADIO NOVELTY DISPLAY – The transistor radio is the focal point of this display, which was made in China. Measuring 17" x 8" x 8", the radio is all wood construction. (Alexandria Nelson – Albuquerque, NM)

RCA RADIOLA AR-813 – This 6-tube catacomb superheterodyne radio, circa 1924, has the same circuit as the Super VIII (AR-810) and the portable AR-812. The radio is factory installed in a nice cabinet with a built-in horn, a loop antenna in the front door, room for batteries inside the cabinet, and tube access through a removable panel above the horn opening grille. (Joe Urbanovitch – Sylmar, CA)

KOLSTER MODEL K20 – This AC set, circa 1925, is in stark contrast to the earlier Kolster battery sets. This set contains no pot metal; it is all cast aluminum. Kolster must have recognized the deficiencies of the 6D-6K models and corrected them. (Walter V. Worth – Wollaston, MA)

HOWARD MODEL S – Sold by the Howard Radio Company of South Haven, Michigan, this set with its unusual form has a classy look, featuring Deco styling and a vertical dial. The 8-tube (2-34s, 2-30s, 2-49s, 1-32, 1-1A6) standard broadcast receiver required 3 batteries (135V "B", 9V "C", 2V "A") circa 1934. (Wayne King – Shelbyville, KY)

PHOTO REVIEW



ZENITH REGENT "PHONE MAGNET" – This hearing aid, in its original box, uses 3 miniature tubes, an A battery and a 22½-volt B battery. The case is a shiny brass. (Howard Stone – Deer River, MN)

BARTENDER RADIO – The bottles on the top of this coin-operated novelty transistor radio, made in Japan, are the tuning and volume controls. The bartender is a ceramic decanter. (Alexandria Nelson – Albuquerque, NM)

GENERAL ELECTRIC MODEL HJ-624 – The rounded end and distinctive inlaid veneers make this 1939 set very attractive. It uses 7 tubes, one of which is a ballast tube. Although seemingly out of place in larger cabinets, its compact chassis was also used in console Model J-65 and others. (Spencer J. Doggett – Washington, MI)

PHOTO REVIEW

EMERSON MODEL C134 – This large (21" high) tombstone has the Emerson "Gemlaid" dial, 5 control knobs, 8 tubes and an 8" speaker. Manufactured in 1936, this handsome 3-band radio is an excellent performer. Notice the magic eye located in the middle of the speaker grille. (Wayne King – Shelbyville, KY)

HOWARD FM TUNER – Circa 1948, this tuner can be connected to an AM radio via a phono jack or TV sound jack. (Greg Carlson – Bemidji, MN)

MIDWEST MODEL 18-37 – This 1937 floor model boasts 18 tubes, operating on 4 bands. The cabinet is prow-shaped with a chrome and brown metal panel. (Howard Stone – Deer River, MN)

Testing Tube Testers

BY GARY WATROS

Different tube testers give different results. This inconsistency led Gary Watros to test the testers by running a comparison check, as described in the following article. His experiment led to more questions to which readers may have answers that A.R.C. would publish in a follow-up article. (Editor)

My inexperience seemed to be the explanation for the confusing results I was getting from my several tube testers. To straighten things out, I decided to test the testers and the tester (me) by running a comparison check. Nine used Type 50L6 tubes of unknown condition were checked with the following equipment:

1. B&K 500 Dyna-Quik Dynamic Mutual Conductance Tester (see Figure 1).
2. Hickok 550X Dynamic Mutual Conductance Tester (see Figure 2).
3. Clough-Brengle 225 (see Figure 3).

This equipment is probably typical of what is available nowadays. The B&K was purchased from a secondhand store. The Hickok was obtained directly from the estate of a TV/radio repairman and was apparently working properly when last used. The Clough-Brengle was bought from an antique dealer in Brimfield, Mass., who claimed it had been reconditioned (it does have a new cord), and that it worked properly.

All tubes were tested in succession on first one machine and then the next. Both the Hickok and Clough-Brengle had a line voltage adjustment, which was used. Some of the tests were repeated to verify results.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

Two of the indicators seem to be consistently wrong. First, the "Gas" indications on the B&K are apparently reversed; i.e., "Replace" really means "Good" and vice versa. Second, the "Good/Bad" test for the Clough-Brengle was usually in the "?" zone at the extreme high (right) end of the scale, beyond "Good," or off-scale right. Apparently, the Clough-Brengle's "Index" setting is responsible for these questionable results, because raising the listed setting from 94 to 97/98 moves those readings on-scale. (More tests would be needed to determine if the setting listed for the 50L6 is wrong or if the "Index" control is consistently the problem.)

Adjusting for the systematic problems with the B&K and Clough-Brengle, I concluded that the following might be said of the condition of the tubes tested:

Consistent readings

Good tubes:
- #3 – All favorable indications.
- #6 – All favorable indications.

Bad tubes:
- #7 – Heater did not work on any tester.
- #9 – Short was indicated on all testers.

Inconsistent readings

Apparently serviceable, but marginal tubes:
- #1 & #5 – Odds are they are weak.
- #2 – Perhaps weak, perhaps a "slight" short.

Apparently bad tubes:
- #4 – Seems to have excessive gas and/or short.
- #8 – Probably has a short.

As you can see, there is a good deal of inconsistency in the readings of these testers. I naively had thought that the third tester would make for clear, best-two-out-of-three votes for a tube's condition. But that is not always the case. Perhaps readers could help those of us who aren't sure of the results we get from our tube testers:

- Did I misinterpret the results?
- What can be done to improve the repeatability of results from a given tester (e.g., waiting a given length of time before testing)?
- Is one (or more) of the testers untrustworthy? Which one?
- Should I buy one reliable tester and toss the rest? How will I know it is reliable?
- Do I need a fourth tester?

(Gary Watros, 10 Mt. Pleasant St., Winchester, MA 01890)

Gary is 50 years old — too young to remember the heyday of radio and too old to learn to fix radios easily. He worked at NASA's Mission Control Center during the Apollo days and more recently at the U.S. Department of Transportation in Cambridge, Mass. His first radio was a 1938 Philco which he bought for his wife as a birthday present in 1978, one of many radios she has failed to appreciate as much as he.

In Search of Permeability Tuning

BY JOHN STANLEY

The following short article by John Stanley seeks information about AM radios, other than automobile radios, which use permeability tuning for station selection. John's inquiry prompted a response from Ray Bintliff. We invite other readers to join in the discussion, in the hope that more information about radios using permeability tuning can be shared with our readers. (Editor)

Permeability tuning exhibits relatively poor selectivity at the high end of the band and costs more than capacitive tuning. Only in car sets was it economically desirable because of its compactness.

I have never seen or heard of a factory-made AM house radio that used permeability tuning, but I did see one that had been built by a German prisoner of war (POW). The varnished plywood cabinet could have been built on site, but the chassis, dial, tuning coils and powdered iron slugs had the appearance of manufactured items designed to function as a unit. I doubt that the POW demand would have justified tooling up, so perhaps the set was from a kit, or parts left over from a commercial production run.

If there were any AM house radios manufactured using permeability tuning, some A.R.C. readers are sure to know all about them. I hope they will share any information they have about permeability tuning with other readers.

A Definition of Permeability Tuning

BY RAY BINTLIFF

Permeability tuning is accomplished by moving an iron core in and out of a coil to vary its inductance. It is the flip-side of capacitor tuning. Capacitor tuning, which is more widely used, employs a variable capacitor and a fixed inductance. Permeability tuning utilizes a variable inductance and a fixed capacitor.

Although it produces a very efficient tuned circuit, permeability tuning has some drawbacks, such as limited tuning range, nonlinear tuning and, as John Stanley says, some loss in efficiency at the high end of the broadcast band. As a result, it is less common than capacitor tuning for station selection in home radios.

However, permeability tuning was used extensively in radios with nonmechanical push buttons. Typically, the push buttons' oscillator coils are permeability tuned, and the antenna coils are tuned by a conventional trimmer capacitor. The characteristics of permeability tuning make it more suitable for use in IF transformers and push-button circuits than for front-end tuning. Although it may seem a relatively recent development, the use of permeability tuning dates to the 1930s.

Very early radios were tuned by varying the inductance of a tuned circuit, but this circuit design gave way to capacitor tuning. With the development of improved core material, permeability tuned circuits have brought us back to inductive tuning. We seem to have come full circle.

Perhaps A.R.C. readers can assist John Stanley in his search for AM radios that utilize permeability tuning for station selection.

MUSEUM MUSINGS

Wireless Windfall for Marconi Center
Marshall, California

COMPILED FROM INFORMATION CONTRIBUTED BY ROBERT AND TINA WIEPERT

The Marconi Conference Center and State Historical Park in Marshall, California [A.R.C., July 1991], has received a windfall of information about the early days of wireless in the Hawaiian Islands. The Marconi Center will archive and microfilm for its museum the extensive material found at the old Marconi/RCA site in Kahuku, Oahu, by Tina and Bob Wiepert, ardent radio collectors and historians. The material extends to the 1950s from as far back as the opening ceremony at the site in 1914.

The Wiepert's story is one of insatiable curiosity, long patience, and hard work. In 1987, a visit to an antique shop began a search which Tina says "changed two lives." In a pile of old photos and postcards in the shop, she and Bob found about 40 original photos and negatives from radio stations located on Oahu from 1920 to 1940.

Three years of research followed. It involved people, companies, and museums across the country and resulted in an article — "The First Years of Wireless in the Hawaiian Islands" — published in the AWA Review, Vol. 6, 1991.

Widespread interest in the article led to communication with Nick Carpenter, manager of the Amorient Aqua Farms, the present tenant of the old Marconi/RCA site in Kahuku. Thinking there might be a few boxes of interest to radio buffs at the site, Carpenter granted Tina and Bob permission to explore an almost forgotten upstairs storeroom, sealed since the old station had closed. There the Wieperts estimate that they found about 2,000 pounds of papers, books, logs, and radiograms that somehow survived the station's bonfire after RCA had closed.

Realizing the significance of their rare find to collectors and radio historians, the Wieperts resolved to find a way to preserve these documents. Their first challenge was how to move the boxes down from the loft to which there was no stairway. A pulley system was used to solve the problem.

They then spent a full day of hard labor filling two and a half trucks and hauling the disintegrating wooden boxes away to a friend's garage for temporary storage. This was only the beginning. There was much more work to do, because most of the papers were either termite-eaten or water damaged.

Many hours of cleaning each paper and book followed. The Wieperts tried to reconstruct the original file system from the available documents, and, for the most part, they were successful.

Then came the moment of truth — where to store this wonderful resource. Most interested parties simply did not have the room for so much paper. Luckily, the Marconi Conference Center expressed interest, and to Tina and Bob, no repository could be more perfect. After all, the Marconi site is the receiving station for the Kahuku station where the papers were found.

The Wieperts are grateful to Wayne Zion, General Manager of the Marconi Center, for accepting the documents, as well as taking the responsibility for restoring, preserving and displaying them. Now the documents will be carefully preserved and accessible to students of radio history who will be forever indebted to Bob and Tina Wiepert for their extraordinary efforts.

Many other people helped the Wieperts along the way. Bill Moore first informed them about the Kahuku station; Tod and Chris Holowasko and W. Keith Judy helped to recover the material, while Tod did the photography. Bob Yee contributed his garage for temporary storage. Some documents have been donated to the Antique Wireless Association Electronic Communication Musem in Bloomfield, New York, under the supervision of curator Bruce Kelley.

The Marconi Center seeks donations of equipment, hardware, photos, documents, and, of course, money for the preservation of radio history. Such contributions are a grand show of support not only for the museum, but also for this hobby in the generations to come. For more information, write: Wayne Zion, Marconi Conference Center, P.O. Box 789, Marshall, CA 94941 or call: 415-663-9030.

WHITE'S INDEX TO A.R.C. - 1993

Compiled by Frank R. White, KBØTG
P.O. Box 3283, Olathe, Kansas 66063

Antique Radio Classified is pleased to print in this March 1994 issue the 1993 Index to A.R.C., compiled again this year by Frank R. White. This index, covering 1993 only, follows the comprehensive 1984-90 Index printed in the March 1991 issue, the 1991 Index printed in the March 1992 issue and the 1992 Index printed in the March 1993 issue. (All back issues are available from A.R.C. for $4.00 each, postpaid in the U.S.)

The index is in three sections:

1. Index of Persons, Company Names, and Model Names
   Alphabetical listing of all photographs, historical names, company names, and model names.
2. Index of Miscellaneous Topics
   Particular topics, such as restoration, novelties, etc., are grouped together. The most important of these are the following:
   Restoration — References to all restoration suggestions in A.R.C.
   Troubleshooting — Tips from all articles alphabetized by subject.
   Radio — Miscellaneous topics about or related directly to radio.
   Novelty — All novelty radios and items listed alphabetically by subject, even sets not listed in the first section because of unknown manufacturer.
   Other subjects include bugs, keys, test instruments, and unknown items.
3. Index of Articles
   Articles alphabetized by page banner heading (if applicable) followed by the title. Follow-up corrections (Oops!) are also included.

Many thanks to Frank from A.R.C. and its readers for this outstanding contribution.

The Index to A.R.C.

BY FRANK R. WHITE

As a collector of antique radios, I find that a large part of the fascination is the historical background of the radios and their manufacturers. After receiving the premier issue of Antique Radio Classified in the summer of 1984, I immediately became a subscriber. A.R.C. is a great combination of classified ads and historical articles, all in one monthly publication. But as the stack of A.R.C.'s grew, it became increasingly difficult to locate information. I wanted the capability of looking up each reference quickly, as if it were in a textbook with an index in the back.

My first attempt at an A.R.C. index was to list the photos of Crosleys, plus a few other sets of interest to me. It didn't take long to realize that an abridged version was inadequate, so I later indexed all photos. But, as the number of articles increased, so did the historical and other significant pieces of information contained in them. I realized that an index of both articles and photos was necessary.

In the summer of 1987, I began compiling a complete index of photos, article references, and titles. The index contained two sections and was published in five consecutive A.R.C. issues beginning with February 1988, as well as in a separate pamphlet. An update for the year 1988 was published in the February 1989 issue.

Continuing to improve my index in the summer of 1989, I undertook a task almost as great as starting over. With my procedures refined from several years of practice, I created a detailed outline and made all the entries conform to it. A third section was added to separate the article titles and miscellaneous entries.

With the revisions completed just before the Antique Wireless Association's fall conference in New York, I printed and gave away a few copies of a comprehensive version of the index, entitled "Canandaigua Sample Edition," to test my efforts. The results led to the 1984-1990 comprehensive edition of "White's Index," which was published in the March 1991 issue of A.R.C. Since then, A.R.C. has published an annual update, and the latest for 1993 is presented here.

Certain specific features of the index are a definite advantage. For example, the "Miscellaneous" section has a number of subjects arranged together, making it easy to locate information. The group of "Restoration (Subject)" entries demonstrates the benefits of using the index. This section includes all tips in A.R.C. and is not limited to just the restoration topic articles in the magazine. With more restoration work being done now, this section should be increasingly helpful.

Novelty sets are, of course, listed in the first main section of the index if the company name is known. If neither the company nor the manufacturer name is known, the set cannot be listed in that section. However, all novelty sets that appear in A.R.C. are referenced in the "Novelty (Item)" listing, making them very easy to locate.

I hope that this 1993 Index will help you make even better use of a great publication.

Frank White is an avid collector of regenerative and crystal receivers, and early electrical engineering scientific instruments. His goal is to make the White Radio Laboratory, presently located in his basement, an operating museum with a radio and engineering theme. In addition to pre-1925 receivers, he also collects engineering slide rules and cardboard calculators, as well as wireless books and magazines. Old radios were made to be used! One of Frank's favorite winter evening pastimes is DXing AM broadcast stations with one-tube receivers or with more "modern" sets such as the Zenith Royal 500-H transistor portable.

MESSAGE: This year the Michigan Antique Radio Club (MARC) is proud to announce our 9th annual Extravaganza convention. In just nine (9) years, Extravaganza has become one of the premier events in the United States featuring antique radios, TVs, and related items. Extravaganza '94 will again be held at the fabulous Holiday Inn South Convention Center in Lansing, Michigan. Not only is this a world-class facility with 300 guest rooms, but it also has parking for over 1,000 cars! Friday is a busy day that kicks off with our large open air Flea Market where we have over 300 contiguous spaces just for our sellers. For the record, we will permit flea market setup starting Thursday at 7 pm. However, no selling will be allowed until Friday morning!! As a service to you, our guests, we will also be providing security in our flea market each evening from 10 pm-6 am. In the middle of our flea market you will immediately spot our large 40' x 40' "Registration and Hospitality" tent where not only will you register for Extravaganza, but you will also find plenty of coffee, food and beverages. Later Friday afternoon we have scheduled two informative programs and our equipment contest. Friday night is capped off with our popular informal social hour at which Norm Smith of Bradenton, Florida, will be our main speaker. Norm is one of the foremost collectors of transistor radios, which will be the theme of his talk. Following Norm's talk and under the cloak of darkness and secrecy, Elvis (and the Jordanettes) will make an appearance and perform just for you! Note, there is no additional charge to attend this activity. Saturday includes a third informative program and our Women's Luncheon, hosted by Nancy Colbert. Our highly acclaimed Equipment Auction this year with Colonel Judy Elenbaas of Holland, Michigan, as our auctioneer, also runs on Saturday. We have moved the start of the auction up to 1 pm and have extended it to run all the way through 7 pm, if necessary. Last year nearly 250 items were sold, resulting in a total of almost $20,000! Also, we have gone back to the popular buy-back auction format used in previous years. At 5 pm we will interrupt the auction and raffle off a beautiful and desirable radio. Each person registering for Extravaganza will receive one free raffle ticket for this drawing and additional tickets will be offered for sale. On Sunday as Extravaganza '94 winds down, we will conclude our convention with our Donation Auction and final Seller's Drawing ($50 Friday, $75 Saturday, & $100 Sunday). Plan to attend Extravaganza '94. We are sure you will have an interesting, enjoyable and profitable time! For a convention brochure or any additional information on this fantastic event, write: Extravaganza '94, PO Box 585, Okemos, MI 48805-0585

Vacuum Tube Repair Wafers

These tube repair wafers are solid-state devices for quick and easy repair of early vacuum tubes. The wafer is installed by simply sliding it over the tube pins and reinserting the tube into its socket. If the filament is intact, but there is little or no emission, the filament may be lit for best visual effect. However, the tube can be open filament.

No change in radio operating voltages is required. Any number of tubes may be repaired in a radio. If wafers are installed on all tubes, the B+ voltage may usually be reduced without sacrificing volume or sensitivity. Performance will vary between radio models.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 19¢ each. See details below. Classified ads sent by mail, fax or by any other method must be received (not just postmarked!) by Noon Eastern Time on the classified ad deadline date to guarantee inclusion in the current issue. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page 2 for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Please write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, especially when included with other A.R.C. correspondence. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

To minimize our typing errors: Please write legibly. Use both capital and small letters. Do not use a dash between words. Carefully write the following numbers and letters (especially in model numbers) since some can look alike; for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Also: 0, O , o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which we might mistake as a more common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's annotations are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

The publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Names other than the advertiser will be edited out of ads. Ads with non-radio-related items will be returned or edited unless the non-radio-related items are for trade of radio-related items, or they are incidental to and appear at the end of an otherwise acceptable ad. The publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason.

Clubs: Since club activities receive free coverage on the Coming Radio Events pages, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. See inside front cover for additional information.

CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: NOON ET– 10th of the month!

Classified ads must have a standard heading such as WANTED, FOR SALE, FOR TRADE, FOR SALE/TRADE, SERVICES, MESSAGE, HELP, AUCTION, MEET, etc. This heading is the only bold or all-capitalized words allowed in the ad. Capitalize only manufacturer names, model names, etc. "Wanted" and "For Sale" ads are mixed together to encourage the reading of all ads, including the "Wanted" ads. This standard ad format makes scanning the ads easier.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

To encourage varied content of the ads, the same classified ad may be run only once per issue and for only two consecutive months. (To run an ad longer, use a boxed classified or display ad.)

Classified Ad Rates per Month

Subscribers:
- First 20 words: FREE
- 19¢ per word for extra words over 20 plus
- 10¢ per word for a shaded ad (count all words including free words).
- * Subscribers may take 20 free words on only one ad each month.

Non-Subscribers:
- 35¢ per word plus
- 10¢ per word for shaded ad.

Please do not forget to send in the extra 19¢ per word when your classified ad runs over the free 20 words; your payment will be appreciated, and it will help to keep A.R.C. healthy.

BOXED CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: 1st of the month!

Boxed classified ads can run unchanged for three months or more. No words are free. Ads may be shaded and may include bold and all-capitalized words freely. The ad need not begin with "For Sale," etc. Minimum run is 3 months, prepaid. Discount: 5% for 6 months; 10% for 12 months.

Boxed Classified Ad Rates per Month

Nonshaded ads:
- 30¢ per word for all words,* none free, plus
- 10¢ per word for each bold word plus
- 10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Shaded Ads (All words are bold at no charge):
- 40¢ per word for all words* plus
- 10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Non-Subscribers:
- Add 20¢ per word to above costs.

Drawings and photos are encouraged as the response to your ad is much larger and the reader knows better what you want or are selling. Send in your drawing or photograph, and A.R.C. will reduce it or enlarge it as needed.

CHANGES & CANCELLATIONS

Please check your ads carefully before sending them in. Once ads are received, it is not always possible to refund the amount sent, pull the ad or make changes.

IMPORTANT — COUNTING WORDS — IMPORTANT

The standard headings: WANTED, FOR SALE, etc., count as one word each time used in an ad. Name, address and (one) telephone number, count as 6 words, regardless of length. Ham call letters and business name can be included in the 6 words and do not count extra. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads. Each additional word, abbreviation, model number or number group, extra telephone numbers, etc. count as one word each. Hyphenated words count as two words.
